OPENING GUN IN COUNTY FIRED BY REPUBLICANS

Great Ethusiasm Shown in G. O. P. Rally at Donora

DR. BRUMBAUGH SPEAKS

Candidate For Governor Enthuses His Audience—Overflow Meeting Held

Characterized by tremendous enthusiasm the county Republican campaign was opened Tuesday in Donora, and a splendid reception accorded to Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh, candidate for governor and state and district candidates. Donora turned out en masse for the occasion and large delegations were present from Charleroi, Monongahela, Washington and numerous other points. From Charleroi from 25 to 30 automobile loads of people went, to say nothing of a special car load of citizens. Dr. Brumbaugh, who officiated earlier in the day at the dedication of the new Donora school building, was the center of attraction, and so great was the drawing card that an overflow meeting had to be held. Mr. Brumbaugh spoke at the school building after viewing a school parade went by automobile to Monongahela where he was tendered a reception at the Commercial hotel. Receiving with him at the hotel were John R. K. Scott, candidate for congressman-at-large; W. H. Brown, Republican candidate for congress from the 24th district; Henry Houck, candidate for secretary of internal affairs; John H. Hallam, Republican candidate for state senate; Dr. J. Add Sprowls, H. Russell Myers and G. P. Baker, candidates for state assembly on the Republican ticket.

Dr. Brumbaugh and his party had hardly more than returned to Donora than he received a pleasant surprise in which a Charleroi man was one of the chief figures. He registered for supper at the Irondale hotel, when he beheld the name "J. K. Brumbaugh, Charleroi," on the register. "Well," exclaimed Dr. Brumbaugh, "if here is not the name of a cousin of mine whom I have not seen for 20 years." Later he met the Charleroi Mr. Brumbaugh and they had a family reunion at the supper table.

Parade is Big Feature. A monster parade was one of the leading features. It started at 7 o'clock. A string of fully 100 automobiles was in line and the streets were a glare from the light of red fire torches.

The Donora Steel Works band led the line of parade. Following the parade the formal opening meeting of the campaign was held in the Grand theatre. County Chairman Norman E. Clark opened the exercises and introduced John McGuire, vice-president of the Donora Young Men's Republican club, as chairman of the evening.

The first speaker was Dr. Brumbaugh. He recalled the history of Washington county and the important part that county had played in the history of the nation. He paid tribute to the two colleges, Jefferson and Washington and their great influence for good.

Stand on Teaching Record. Turning to political affairs Dr. Brumbaugh said he would not have been a candidate but for the open primaries which gave the poor man equal opportunity with the rich. He declared that as a candidate he stood on his record as a school teacher in Pennsylvania. He said he was not there to make wild promises but would serve the manhood and womanhood of the state as he had served the childhood. He said he stood on the principles enunciated in his platform issued shortly before the primaries. He declared himself ready to face the people on every high moral issue and said that the standards of the Republican party stood for the loftiest service, cleanest politics and fairest dealing that any

CHARLEROI HOME MUCH FIRED PLACE

Two Reports of Fire in Few Hours. Period From Armond Cappellini's Dwelling Presents Evidence That it is Predestined

It seems as if house No. 1114 on Lincoln avenue occupied by Armond Cappellini might be predestined to be destroyed by fire. Shortly after 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the fire department was called to extinguish a fire on the roof, which had caught from sparks from the chimney. This morning at 5:50 o'clock the fire department was again summoned to this house. The smoke was seen pouring from the second story windows by some of the neighbors, who turned in an alarm. Upon investigation the fact was revealed that the fire was only in the kitchen stove. Two bricks which partly closed the chimney had forced the smoke out through a stove pipe hole into the second story rooms where it was responsible for the fire alarm being sent in. Tuesday afternoon the fire was on the roof, the shingles having caught from the chimney. A fresh fire had just been started in the Cappellini cooking stove on the first floor, and this set fire to the soot in the chimney. Sparks falling on the dry roof ignited it. The quick response of the fire department saved the building. The fire was extinguished by the use of chemicals.

LAST OF ORIGINAL SPHAR FAMILY DIES

Mrs. Elsie Boltze Succumbs to Paralysis at Home of Daughter in Fallowfield—Large Family of Survivors

Mrs. Elsie Boltze, aged 78 years, retained her residence at the home the last of the survivors of the original Sphar connection died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Lutes, in Fallowfield township at 5:25 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Death was due to paralysis, of which she had suffered two strokes. She was one of the best known residents of the community.

DEDICATE FINE NEW EDIFICE

Dr. M. G. Brumbaugh Makes Dedictory Address at Donora

PARADE IS A FEATURE

One of the principal events of Tuesday at Donora was the dedication of Donora's handsome new $22,000 First street public school building. The dedicatory address was made by Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh, of Philadelphia Republican candidate for governor. He is also a widely known school man.

A big parade led by the Donora Steel Works band, under the control of Capt. Gustav Schaaf, as chief marshal, was a feature just preceding the dedicatory address. Children from the schools stood along the line of march and greeted the marchers. Escorted in the parade by the Sons of Veterans and the Donora Independent Infantry, Dr. Brumbaugh, other Republican candidates, members of the school board and officials of Donora rode in automobiles.

The speakers stand had been erected at the school building. Nearly 2,000 school children gathered here with their teachers and friends. Dr. J. Add Sprowls, president of the Donora school board presided as chairman. Dr. J. Add Sprowls, chairman, told in his introductory remarks something of the growth of the Donora schools in the 14 years of their history. From a district with one building worth $38,000 to four buildings with a total school equipment of $300,000; from a beginning with six teachers and one principal to 52 teachers and a superintendent. The borough has 2,300 children in its schools.

Dr. Brumbaugh spoke of the superiority of the Pennsylvania schools over those of many other states, and of the opportunities that the children are given in this state to get an education that they are not given in other states. He dwelt at some length on the rights of the child in the home and at school.

Following Dr. Brumbaugh, Henry Houck, secretary of internal affairs, was called upon. Mr. Houck called for three cheers for the flag and three cheers for Donora. He related for a few minutes stories of his early boyhood while in school. He touched briefly on the great interest in public education today. The exercises ended with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Torpedo Is Costly

Ross Thirkield, of Battleship Minnesota Writes Here of His Work

A postcard picture and a brief message has been received by Palmer Ashton, of the Mail office, from Ross Thirkield of Belle Vernon, who is serving on board the vessel Minnesota. The picture, which is a good likeness of Thirkield and one of his friends on board, was taken while the battleship was off the coast of Labera Beach. They are standing by a torpedo and Thirkield writes that it is made of steel and all like it, cost $1,500 each. Thirkield visited here recently and told of the visit of the Minnesota to Mexico. He is now at New York.

AVIATOR HERBSTER IN BERLIN

Brother of Monessen Woman Gets Naval Appointment

WELL KNOWN OFFICER

To what is probably one of the most important as well as one of the most difficult posts in the world today, Lieutenant Victor Daniel Herbster, a brother of Mrs. Calvin H. Dits, of Monessen, has been appointed. That post is assistant naval attaché of the American embassy at Berlin, Germany. Lieutenant Herbster is now in Berlin, having been sent sent there by Secretary of the Navy Joseph Daniels. He is under Ambassador Gerard to remain there until the close of the present European war.

The first news of Lieutenant Herbster's orders to his new post has just reached his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Samuel K. Herbster, at Braddock, in a letter from the young lieutenant dated London, September 1. Lieutenant Herbster had then just received notice of his appointment and was leaving at once for Berlin.

Lieutenant Herbster has been on the battleship North Carolina since mid summer, when he left Marblehead, Mass., bound for French and British waters. He was at Havre, France, before the outbreak of the war.

Lieutenant Herbster is one of the best known of the officers of the United States aviation corps, and in the summer of 1913 broke the record made at the Annapolis Aviation grounds for flight in a hydroplane. He was sent last winter to the Pensacola naval aviation grounds, where he was placed in charge. Early this summer the young officer had charge of the naval aviation corps at Marblehead, Mass. He has been with the United States Naval Aviation corps a little more than three years, having graduated high in his class at Annapolis. His home is in Irwin, but he is well known in the Monongahela valley. He visited his sister at Monessen this summer.

HONOR FOR OLD JOKES

REALLY, HAVE THEY NOT A GOOD CLAIM TO FRIENDSHIP?

Old Books, Old Wines, Old Friends
Held Up to Reverence, Why Not the Memory of Laughter of Past Years?

Why should we hail with such an appreciative and sympathetic gusto to poetic sentiment, "Old books, old wine and old friends," and yet hesitate to admit to that loving companionship
"and old jokes"? Why should not the crown of immortality be openly placed upon the honored hero of an ancient anecdote? Why do we insist upon having our factious stories served like our buckwheat cakes, hot and fresh?
Why do we sneeringly stigmatize a "twice-told" jest as a "chestnut" and a "bromide"? Why do we shun the companionship of the unfortunate wretch who repeats his stories? Why is such a repetition regarded as a certain symptom of senile dementia?
Why has the name of "Joseph Miller"
become a byword?

A man may repeat a thousand times
a gem from Milton or Shakespeare, and society applauds his brilliancy, a writer in the Boston Herald asserts.
Let him repeat an ancient bit of wit, and youth shakes its pitying head, and whispers, "He has fallen into his anecdotalage." As the poet says,
"There's something more than natural in this if philosophy could find it out." For a good joke is as immortal as a good book. Nay, it is a rarer gem. For there are very few jesters of the first order of the world.

But whenever you find an anecdote redolent with the exquisite aroma of true comedy, you will almost always find, after chemical analysis, that it is an old friend in a new disguise.
Old jokes, like rare old masters, are being constantly restored for the joy of an unfamiliar age. We are laughing today over jests that shook the sides of Shakespeare and rare Ben Johnson; nay, that wrinkled the face of jolly Aristophanes; and have come to us as precious heirlooms through Rabelais and Boccaccio.

The very humorous journals that despise the "chestnut" and the "bromide" are serving us in the "interstices" stories, disguised in modern slang, that are centuries old. A very acute observer has confidently asserted that there are only seven original funny stories in the world. The whole brood of modern witticisms spring from those few progenitors. Another common trick of the joke mechanics is to take a story and foster it upon some individual who has secured a passing reputation for humor.

The higher critics say that Solomon did not compose the book of Proverbs. He established a local reputation and every obscure fellow in the kingdom who wanted to float his scanty stock of wisdom put the king's label on it. And the modern funny man takes an ancient joke and saddles it upon Lincoln, Read, Depew or Mark Twain.

Our genial philosopher, Mr. Dooley, says: "The last man that makes a joke owns it." Now, as the scripture says, "These things ought not to be."
Why should these royal and imperial jokes be disowned, stripped of their kingly robes, and sneaked in through the back door of modern life? What crown jewels could equal in preciousness one of these original seven gems of mirth, that were born when the world was young? Why should we not honor the old men who can recall the imperishable jests that filled the vanished with "unextinguishable laughter"? Let us add to the joyous tri-umf of old books, wine and friends
the sweet companionship of old stories.

Ready to Help.

A. J. Drexel Biddle, the chief of the great chain of Drexel Biddle Bible classes, was condemning in Philadelphia a charity society that spent more of its income in ferreting out fake than in relieving genuine distress.

"There's not much help in such a charity as that," said Mr. Drexel Biddle. "It reminds me of the woman at whose door a tramp knocked on a bitter March day.

"The tramp was miserably clad,
and under the beating of the terrible March winds the poor fellow was blue and shivering with cold.

"'Lady,' he gasped, 'I've hardly got a rag to my back. Can you help me?'"

"'Why, certainly! There's my rag bag behind the door,' the lady answered calmly. 'Help yourself.'"

G. B. S. Defines Socialism.

George Bernard Shaw says: "Socialism means equal division of the national income among all the inhabitants of the country, of the maintenance of that equal division as an invariable social postulate to the very root of the constitution. The problem socialism offers to politicians and economists is how to make this pos-tulate workable."

Mr. Shaw believes that the process of redistributing income already begun by legislation, together with the pooling tendencies of capital, will lead to an examination of the overwhelming objections to income inequality.

Settled the Vicar.
To test the safety of the church steeple a country vicar climbed it with a scaling ladder—a feat requiring no small amount of nerve. He was proud of his achievement and talked rather more about it than was, perhaps, consistent with modesty. He even, at a meeting of his parishioners, described, with a wealth of detail, his feelings while aloft.
"When I reached the top and saw the huge golden weathercock gleaming in the sunlight, what do you think I did?" he asked.
An old farmer, who looked the picture of boredom, hazarded a guess.
"You cheated the weathercock," he said.
"What do you mean, sir?" sharply demanded the vicar.
"Why, you did it out of the job of crowing," the unperturbed old farmer replied.

Elephant's View of Life.
The elephant flapped his ears and sighed so impressively that the yellow dust in the alley way was considerably agitated.
"To think," he confidentially remarked to the toothless tiger, "that my ancestors fought with Hannibal and graced a Roman holiday!"
"What's the answer?" snarled the tiger.
"Dust and desolation," snorted the elephant. "I have in my veins the blood of the white mammoths of Upsala, and yet am forced, forsooth, to pose with a lot of mangy and moth-eaten quadrupeds in a hand-made jungle, in front of a moving-picture coffee mill. Wool, but I'm sorely tempted to throttle myself with my own trunk and so make an end on't!"

UNDERSTOOD ALL THE REST
On Only One Comparatively Unimportant Point Was the Juror at Fault.

It quite often happens that in addressing a jury, the lawyers will deliver their appeals to the one member who seems to them the most intelligent. They consider that by so doing they can impress him and his influence upon the other members will be valuable.
In a recent case, all the testimony had been taken, the lawyers had summed up and the judge had charged the jury. When the juror who appeared the most intelligent, and to whom both counsel had made their impassioned appeal, arose, and stated that he wished the court to give him some information.
"I have been bothered a great deal," he said, "about two words the lawyers have been using all the time."
"What are they?" asked the court, expecting to be called upon to explain the meaning of some words like "res inter alios acta."
"Why, the words that I don't know the meaning of," said the juror, "are 'plaintiff' and 'defendant'."—Exchange.
Christmas Festing.
"Oh, Mr. Pippertley," she exclaimed, "Oh, Mr. Pippertley," she exclaimed, "have you ever felt a dim, uneasy sense of oppression as if the mere weight of life were a burden too heavy to be borne by the chained spirit panting with psychic longing to be free?"
"I invariably have such a feeling at Christmas time," was the callous response, "but hitherto I have attributed it to pudding!"

FORMER MONESSEN JEWELER MAKING GOOD NOW IN CHARLEROI LOCATION

H. Porter, of Fallowfield Avenue Progressive Merchant Who Knows Benefits to be Derived in Widewake Community

METHODSCO MEND THEMSELVES TO PROGRESSIVE

Five years ago a young man who had been conducting a successful jewelry business in Monessen for about six years began to look about for a place that was in keeping with his progressive spirit. He spent considerable time in this search for a wideawake town—one that was up to the minute in every detail and one in which he could feel confident his business would continually develop for years to come.
That exceedingly careful progressive young man who at length turned his eyes toward Charleroi and after one long gaze over the "Magic City," breathed a sigh of relief and satisfaction was H. Porter, who now conducts the up-to-date jewelry store at 574 Fallowfield avenue.
Mr. Porter came to Charleroi and immediately set about showing the people of the growing town that he mant business. He has been showing them ever since and has been demonstrating his profound knowledge of business. He is among the best jewelers in Charleroi. He makes a specialty of doing delicate repair work.

Mr. Porter carries a full line of fine jewelry of all kinds, his work can be depended upon, and a customer may be sure that the goods that he buys from Mr. Porter will be just as represented.
Mr. Porter has always taken a lively interest in anything that will be of benefit to Charleroi or the near vicinity. He believes as do the majority of Charleroi business men that the railways line to Bentleyville will be of considerable benefit to Charleroi, and will be found among the Charleroi men who will hold out a welcome hard to the neighboring town.

Monongahela And Charleroi Teams Will Play Series

Arrangements have been made for a championship series of baseball club met Manager-Captain Walter Urban.
The series will be known as the Monongahela valley championship series. Both teams are evenly matched, and both will be home teams. It is probable that Monongahela will profit by the arrival home of one or two minor league stars, and Charleroi may similarly benefit. Arch Osborne is home from Waterbury, Conn., in the Connecticut league and probably will be called into service during the Monongahela series.

BROWNSVILLE BRIDGE MUCH VIEWED PLACE

Commissioners of Fayette and Washington counties with George Chaney engineer for the Washington county commissioners, and Herman Laub, consulting engineer from Pittsburgh, spent almost the entire day in Brownsville Monday and conducted the final inspection of the bridge over the Monongahela river, before it is turned over to the counties by the Fort Pitt Bridge company. Following the inspection the commissioners of the two counties held a meeting in the Monongahela hotel and discussed the permanent illumination of the bridge. A plan of illumination was submitted by the West Penn Electric company but it was not adopted at the meeting. The commissioners from the two counties will hold another meeting next Monday morning at Washington, when it is expected contracts will be closed.

FORMER CHARLEROI YOUNG MAN ADMITTED TO BAR

Howard W. Hughes, of Washington, formerly of Charleroi, has just been admitted to the practice of law before the Washington county bar. Since June, when he was graduated from the law department of Harvard University he has been associated with his cousins, Hughes and Hughes in Washington, and will retain for the time being his association with them. Mr. Hughes was a visitor with relatives in Charleroi over Tuesday.

Maces Have Divers Uses.
London's mace which is emblematic of the authority of the lord mayor's coach today, is merely ornamental, but some city maces are useful as well as symbolic. At Carnarvon, for instance, the top of the mace unscrews and forms a loving cup, which, filled with wine, goes the round of the table when the toast of "Prosperity to the Borough" is drunk.
The ancient mace of the corporation of Marlborough was made to serve a similar purpose, but the fact was not discovered until recently, when the of "bauble" was being renovated.

No Wage Cut to Apply in Steel Plants

Commenting on the revival of reports that the wages of steel workers will be reduced, a steel man says that manufacturers will maintain wages as long as it is possible to do so. All through the depression, which started nearly a year ago, wages have been maintained, although labor lost heavily through non-employment.
The United States Steel Corporation has been a strong advocate for the maintenance of wages, and the opinion has been expressed that the United States Steel Corporation would first economize by cutting the common dividend. Judge Gary is expected home from Europe the middle of this month.

Miss Chester Has Recital Program Ready

She will present a program of merit at the high school auditorium, and will be assisted by Miss Perth Haines, soprano. Miss Chester has had much experience in elocution work. She took a course first at Bethany college and supplemented that with a course at the Curry School of Expression in Boston, Mass., from which she was graduated this year. Miss Haines is a graduate in voice and piano at the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music.

FOOD ENOUGH FOR US ALL

This great country of ours, the United States of America, has enough food to supply every man, woman and child in it. It has within its own resources an abundance of food and there is not even an excuse for the cost of living being per capita high—If the government of this country sees to it that our people are supplied before shipments are made to the nations of Europe or to any other country says an exchange.

Our exports of foodstuffs are not large and as a matter of fact we consume 90 per cent of the leading products of the farms, including wheat, barley and oats.

In Europe much of the harvest was not gathered, when the war broke out. A large percentage of it has already gone to waste because there were no laborers to gather them in. Consequently there will be a shortage of supply with an increased demand in all the countries of Europe and foodstuffs will be at a premium.

These nations must have food and they will offer higher prices in the markets of the world.

The law of supply and demand operates in time of war as well as in times of peace.

Many in this country who control the market will naturally desire to improve their condition and take advantage of the demand. The government itself is the only agency which can step in and say that the food supply of this country shall not be sold to other markets until our own are plentifully supplied.

This will prevent a corner on the markets and also a rise in the price of the necessities of life.

The people in this country will in many ways suffer because of the European wars, but our own people ought not to be permitted to add any additional burdens when we have within our own country an abundance for all. Our first duty is our own people.

HOUSING AND HEALTH

In one of his little talks on health and hygiene on the subject of housing and health, Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, commissioner of health has the following to say:

Nature intended man to live outdoors. Civilization has so extended the geographical range of the human race that this primitive plan has of necessity been abandoned by the great majority of people who spend far more time indoors than out.

In the early stages of civilization houses were sufficiently primitive to insure a healthful degree of ventilation. In recent years there has been much talk in regard to the improvement necessary in housing conditions. In the larger cities there are many miserable tenements which are unfit for habitation but the great majority of our modern houses are constructed on sanitary lines and would be more healthful if they were properly used.

All the living rooms and bed rooms should have a sufficient amount of fresh air passing through them to keep the atmosphere perfectly sweet. With the arrival of the cold weather comes the problem of properly heating the house. The ordinary hot air furnace provides for the admission of fresh air as do indirect systems of steam and hot water heating but where the radiators are placed in the rooms heating too often means raising the temperature of the impure and stagnant air which often remains unchanged for hours regardless of the number of people who breathe it.

It may add to the expense of heating our homes and places of business to permit constant admission of fresh air and the discharge of that which Little Mabel went with her mother to spend the summer at a resort by the sea where mosquitoes abounded. When she returned to her home in the city and attended Sunday school her teacher told the story of Noah and the ark. When she had finished the story she glanced around at her little pupils and asked if any child would like to ask any questions relating an exchange.

"I would, please, ma'am," said Mabelle, timidly.

"Very well," said the teacher, "what would you like to know?"

"I'd like to know, ma'am," said Mabelle, "if you are quite sure that Noah only took two 'skeeters into the ark."

Plenty More Like This in Charleroi

Scores of Charleroi people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

Mrs. Louis Velleitay, 205 Prospect avenue, Charleroi, Pa., says: "I had been troubled for years with dropsical swellings in my feet and ankles and I found it hard to get around. I also had a dull, heavy pain in the small of my back and I couldn't do my housework. I seemed to be worse in the morning and often got so sore that I couldn't bend. Rheumatic pains darted throughout my body and I felt tired all the time. I doctored but got no relief and when I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at Piper's Pharmacy. Two boxes relieved me. I now take Doan's Kidney Pills on and on when I am not feeling well and they never fail to help me."

RETURN TO PARTY NOW A STAMPEDE

Enrollment of Voters a Stampede For Republicans.

DIG FIRST DAY REGISTRATIONS

In Philadelphia alone over 72,000 of the 92,000 who registered dig to as Republicans. Other figures indicate great victory—standing of Senator Penrose make him stronger with voters.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—The first day's registration of voters shows that the return to the Republican party is greater than the most optimistic forecasts predicted and fully justifies the expectation of a decisive Republican victory in November.

In the city of Philadelphia 91,000 registered, of which 72,000 enrolled as Republicans, 19,000 as Democrats and 9,000 as Washington party voters. There are two more registration days, and as an effort will be put forth by the Philadelphia city organization on these days to get out the voters it is likely that the R. O. P. final showing will be even greater than now appears.

As matters now stand the Republican enrollment in this city is over 65,000 more than the next strongest party. When it is considered that this amazing turnout was not the result of any detailed work, but simply a general willingness of Philadelphia voters to qualify themselves in order to enter a protest against the Underwood-Palmer tariff of ruination a fair idea of what is going to happen next November may be obtained.

In Pittsburgh the Republicans have 74 per cent of the total registration, and in cities like Scranton, Erie, Lancaster, Wilkes-Barre, New Castle, McKeesport and other places there have

MAHLON A. GARLAND,
One of the Republican Candidates For Congressmen-at-Large.

been tremendous gains for the party of Lincoln and McKinley. The New Castle Herald, the Bull Moose or an of Lawrence county, in commenting on the registration figures, said:

"Although the registration statistics have not yet been completely compiled it is known that this county has gone Republican by a large majority. The Washington party has practically faded off the map so far as the registration shows."

No Longer a Factor.

The Wilkes-Barre Record, always a champion of Colonel Roosevelt, said regarding conditions in the three cities of Luzerne county: "The figures of enrollment taken with previous tests show conclusively that the Washington party is disappearing as an important factor."

But the enrollment is not the only straw that points to a record-breaking Republican vote this fall. All over the state business men are interesting themselves in the campaign and it is evident that they see the necessity of a Republican victory so as to restore confidence. A few days ago Alva R. Johnson, head of the Baldwin Locomotive Works and an employer of 20,000 men, declared for Senator Penrose. As Mr. Johnson was a leading supporter of J. Benjamin Dimmick, his actions indicate what was expected all along, that every man who voted for Mr. Dimmick last fall will cast his vote for the straight Republican ticket in November.

On Labor Day Senator Penrose and other Republican candidates were given a tremendous reception in Pittsburgh. Here is the opening paragraph in the Public Ledger's account of the Pittsburgh demonstration. As will be recalled, the Public Ledger led the fight for Mr. Dimmick:

"In the midst of an address this afternoon at Kennerwood Park to 500 workers, just one of the four such a diatribe he spoke to during the day Senator Penrose, interrupting a plea for the return of prosperity through protection, asked abruptly:

"I wonder how many of you are out of work?"

"His audience was made up of industrial Pittsburgh, building trades, skilled craftsmen, the more highly paid molders, patternmakers, chainists and about every other branch of labor."

"There was amazement written on the faces of Pittsburghers present when it seemed that over half the hands shot up."

Palmer's Abuse Helps Penrose.

The campaign abuse being carried on by A. Mitchell Palmer is daily winning votes for Senator Penrose. It has brought home to the voters the fact that powerful foreign forces are back of the Palmer candidacy and that those outside manufacturers will stop at nothing to elect the Stroudsburg man. They want to continue the Democratic tariff and if possible close all American industries that compete with their mills. That Palmer should become a party to such a destructive movement does not speak very well for his Americanism.

It requires no special gift of "see and slight" to see why Palmer and his cohorts are directing all their double-edged batteries of misrepresentation against Senator Penrose. It is because they recognize in him a powerful and a world representative of the majority sentiment of Pennsylvania, and a sturdy and true defender of the rights of the people. Penrose has performed a great service for the people, the people know it, and to elect him is to elect a man who will be the champion of the people's interests, and a champion of the people's rights.

But in the present era of intelligence, with the public schools and using an army of voters every year, it is not so easy to delude the people on great public questions or to strip the reputations of men in public life who have rendered a service to the people, as it was in the past, when education was less general. For this reason the state managers have to work all the harder for the purpose of giving their candidates the semblance of plausibility. In the impregnable character of a splendid career of United States Senator Penrose, an amateur statesman, Mr. Palmer and his cohorts, who are seeking to discredit him, are confronted with conditions that are subjecting their inventive powers to a severe strain.

Proved False Prophecies.

A few months ago the enemies of Senator Penrose professed to be delighted because this year, for the first time, his nomination to succeed himself would be made by a popular vote of the Republican party at the primaries. In this they claimed to see an opportunity for his defeat. The freely asserted that the old system of electing United States senators by the votes of the legislatures gave him an advantage that he would not have in the primaries, where the people would have a say, and they were jubilant over the prospects of his defeat for re-nomination.

The result proved they were false prophets. Mr. Penrose was nominated for the United States senator as a free choice of a majority of the Republicans at the primaries, and as the standard-bearer of his party in Pennsylvania he will be elected in November by a vote that will carry him into the camp of his traducers.

Pennsylvania, with its great population, its vast resources, its multiplied activities, its glorious past and its prospects of a magnificent future, recognizes in Senator Penrose a man of the caliber, experience and capacity essential to its perpetuity. He has stood through all his public career and stands today for the substantial greatness of the commonwealth. The state workers and its industries have in him a representative of the type of man that makes for achievement.

During his many years of service in Harrisburg and Washington his powerful influence and active support have been given in behalf of laws for the welfare of the people. The record will prove this fact. His opponents charge him with undue power, but the beneficent mining laws, the factory laws and the many other acts passed for the welfare of the wage-earner prove that his efforts have been for the public good.

His devotion to the principles of protection for American industry has made him the target of special abuse by the free trade opponents. But in this he has been actuated by a profound sense of his duty to the state of Pennsylvania, whose pre-eminence is mainly due to this sound economic policy.

Industrial protection has made Pennsylvania prosperous, and no man in recent years has done more in this behalf than Senator Penrose. The development of the state's industries, keeping pace with its growth in population, has been a mighty factor in the advancement of the commonwealth to its present proud position.

The opponents of industrial protection are the enemies of real progress in Pennsylvania, and they realize that if they succeed in defeating Senator Penrose they would remove from public life one of the most powerful advocates of the protective tariff that stands in the way of their destructive free trade doctrine.

Foreign War Justifies Tariff.

The wisdom of the protective policy, which has developed Pennsylvania's industries and those of the nation, and which enables them to supply the American market, is now more apparent than ever when the countries of Europe are involved in the vortex of a fierce and destructive war.

If the theories of the free trade advocates had prevailed in the past and we were now dependent on foreign imports, as we would be were it not for the building up of our industries under Republican rule, this country would be unable to supply the things it needs because its manufacturing activities would be undeveloped.

The Republican policy of a protective tariff, of which Senator Penrose is the foremost advocate, has resulted in bringing to a high state of perfection the great industrial establishments of the nation and the state, and furnished the stimulus for the employment of American labor to supply our home market independent of imports from foreign workshops.

Although the war in the Old World has barely begun, it has already demonstrated the value of the protective tariff to encourage American industry. Those dealers who have depended for their supplies on imports from Europe already realize that they would be better off if they had directed their energies to the production of the things they need at home. The perpetuity of our national life demands the industrial independence of the people, and protection is the cornerstone of our industrial independence.

Pennsylvania should take no steps backward in the present crisis of the world's history. The state should not risk the prosperity of the people at this time by accepting theories that are destructive of its best interests or electing to important office men whose economic doctrines are opposed to its vital and substantial welfare.

The man to be elected United States senator this year is the man who by his record has proved himself the unfaltering supporter and advocate of protection to American industry, and that man is Boies Penrose.

SHOWS HER TRUE CHARACTER

Floorwalker Has Observed That Woman on Shopping Expedition Reveals Herself as She Is.

Someone has said that you can judge the character of a man by the manner in which he amuses himself. My experience of 15 years as a floorwalker in one of the largest department stores in the country has convinced me that you can always judge a woman by the way in which she shops—which, after all, is only another way of saying the manner in which she amuses herself.

I have learned to realize that when the average woman goes on a shopping expedition—when she has taken up the trail of the bargain, determined to track it to its native counter—she brings all her cleverness into play, and in the rest of the chase she is certain to reveal her true self and unconsciously drop the mask she wears on most social occasions.

Always on the alert, always eager to bring down the game, big or little, with a timely purchase, these shoppers you will see browsing about the counters in and out of season. You will see them questioning the salesgirl, trying to learn in advance when reductions are to be made. You will see them pick out some article and then come in day after day and watch its price tag. Then when the price is lowered to the point where they think it is a bargain, you will see them pounce on it and carry it home. Woman's World.

T. P. Grant Prominent in Business Affairs Since Early History of Charleroi—Conducts

ESTABLISHMENT POPULAR PLACE TO

In the year 1883 a young Clarion county agriculturalist, looking around to ascertain where he might better conditions, detected the possibilities existing in the eastern section of Washington county. He came to Speers to locate on a farm above that town, where he remained until 1900 when he came to Charleroi. That young agriculturalist was T. P. Grant, now proprietor of the hardware store on Fallowfield avenue, which bears his name. He engaged in the brick business upon coming to Charleroi, and remained in this business for 7 or 8 years at the Charleroi brick yards. He was not altogether satisfied with this business so later, with Thomas Eagye as a partner bought the J. M. Whitelock hardware store. A year later Mr. Grant purchased the interest of Mr. Eagye and since that time has conducted the store as sole owner and proprietor. Mr. Grant has always run his business along progressive lines, and has built up a splendid patronage by his untiring efforts and honest manner of dealing with the public. Mr. Grant has always taken a lively interest in any thing that had for its object the betterment of the business social or moral conditions of the town, and has interested himself in various enterprises for improvement of the community.

Brown Speaks of Party's Success

Hon. Wm. M. Brown, Republican candidate for congress in this district, who has been absent from his home several days on business, resumed active campaigning this week. Mr. Brown plans to spend the next several days in Lawrence, Beaver and Washington counties. Speaking of the campaign to a reporter of The New Castle Herald, Mr. Brown said:

"I have every reason to feel encouraged at the progress so far made. From all over this section comes reports, showing that former Republicans are returning to the party and I look for an old time Republican victory this fall. This is not because of the envy of any one man or set of men. It is simply because the thinking voters of Pennsylvania are determined to send men to Washington who know their business needs and will represent their interests. They are tired of government by the south and for the south. This is a great manufacturing state. Its industries have grown up under the policy of protection, and our voters know that that policy must be continued. If prosperity and good wages are to continue in our industries, and our farmers are to find a good market and good prices for their products."

"What do you think will be the effect of Mr. Lewis' withdrawal from the gubernatorial race?" asked the reporter.

"It will help Republicans. It only makes the issue clearer. This is a fight between men who believe in the Republican party and Republican principles, on one side and men who either don't believe in these principles, or are willing to sacrifice them for spoils and personal spite. The open alliance with the Democracy simply shows the insincerity of the Washington party leaders. You have only to refer to Mr. Roosevelt's Pittsburgh speech to find the most bitter arraignment of the Democratic party, and Democratic failure. Yet here we see the leaders of Mr. Roosevelt's party in Pennsylvania allying themselves with the men and the party, that he denounced as destructive and utterly incompetent. Many independent voters, who have been blinded by the pretenses of Washington party leaders are certain to have their eyes opened by Mr. Lewis' withdrawal, and will support Republican candidates."

Fusion Business Gets Goat of Some Party Politicians

Harrisburg, Sept. 15.—To say that the fusion deal whereby Vance C. McCormick is to be the nominee for governor on a mule ticket is popular with the Democrats and Washington party men of the state is going far afield. The general impression is that the leaders who brought it about have provided for division of spoils in case it is successful and that many Washington party men will vote for Brumbaugh as a rebuke to the tricksters and that many Democrats will repudiate McCormick because he is willing for his personal advantage to hush with those whose chief is continually assailing President Wilson.

The failure to fuse against Senator Penrose when it is proclaimed by Lewis and McCormick that their deal is to best the senator is what the people cannot understand. It is probable that the omission of this very important part of sincere fusion will receive some attention at the meeting of the Washington party state committee here Wednesday, and that there may also be some questions asked as to what the Washington party is going to get out of fusion in the way of other nominations.

Congressman Palmer says he is not going to quit, and so does McNair. "Farmer" Creasy has said he is willing to quit, but no one appears to be even thinking of taking him up. The whole fusion is on McCormick to help him out. And he needs it and more.

Notwithstanding the manifest effort of the Harrisburg Patriot to make it appear, that the Dauphin county Washington men are united for fusion, they are as divided on that subject as are the Democrats in regard to McCormick, which is going some. At the Washington party headquarters there was some very outspoken talk about the failure to fuse on United States senator when it is contended that fusion is being worked to beat Penrose. Others think that McCormick is the very antithesis of the Roosevelt propaganda and consider that a candidate whose sole claim to recognition is the favor of Woodrow Wilson is not a very good man for Bull Mooseers to follow. As a matter of fact, the Washington party men of Dauphin county are not more united on the mule nominee than are the Democrats. If fusion is effected on legislative candidates, it is because the Washington men see that they have no chance themselves and can get somewhere with a liberal allowance from the plethoric McCormick campaign fund.

QUITE A DIFFERENT GAME

Interesting to Speculate Whether Baseball Players Could Equal Dexterity of Ironworkers.

What would baseball experts do if they were suddenly called upon to pitch red-hot rivets? Could they pitch and catch red-hot rivets standing on planks on the eighteenth story, say, of a rising skyscraper as cleverly as they juggle with baseballs on the baseball field?

It is just as absorbing and interesting to many folks to watch ironworkers pitch and catch red-hot rivets as it is to watch two baseball teams in action. Undoubtedly it requires a great deal of cleverness. Then danger in two forms is ever near the ironworkers. They may have a bad fall or be severely burned by a misdirected red-hot bolt. Judging by the manner in which they work, one would imagine they possessed as many lives as a cat.

A new steel skyscraper is being erected in any city, and the ironworkers engaged in putting the frame together are always successful in causing a crowd to gather by their expertness in pitching and catching red-hot rivets. Spectators gather on the opposite side of the street and watch the ironworkers hour after hour.

The men who are in charge of the actual riveting are continually supplied with red-hot bolts by a young man who stands near them with an empty keg in his hands. His duty is to catch the flying rivets as they are thrown through the air by another young man who heats the rivets at a small furnace situated some distance from the man with the barrel. The pitcher never makes a wild pitch and the catcher never makes a miss.

NOW A COLLAPSIBLE BRIDGE

One Has Just Been Built in Philippines That Defies Floods So Frequent There.

A so-called collapsible bridge has been designed by the bureau of public works for use in the Philippine islands, where there are streams carrying just enough water to be unfordable. These same streams, according to Engineering News, are subject to floods of extreme height and force, which carry down large quantities of brush and trees. It is necessary to provide some crossing, but money is not available in sufficient sums to permit the construction of bridges permanent enough to withstand the extreme flood conditions.

The new "collapsible" bridge is essentially a series of pile timber bents, carrying short span timber girders and floor, which are attached to cables reaching to "deadmen" on the shore. In general the girder and floor system is broken in the middle of the bridge, and the cables extend from either side of the river to a point midway. During a flood the floor and girder are torn from their insecure fastening to the bent and swing downstream, attached to the cables. After the flood has passed the floor system is floated upstream and placed again upon the timber bents.

One such bridge was recently built at Gapan across the Penaranda river in the Philippines, and it is giving good service. The Penaranda river has a flood width of 1,640 feet, but its low-water width is somewhat under 400 feet. The bridge constructed for this site is 320 feet long and is made up of 16 70-foot spans.

Our Handicap.
W. H. Ellis, a naval architect of the Scotch firm that built the Aquitania, was praising America.

"I have come to admire America tremendously since my arrival in New York," he said. "You are a wonderful country. But then you have so many natural advantages, haven't you?"

"The River Clyde with us has been brought up to its present draft by means of dredging, and so the Scotch are very proud of it."

"Well, a party of American sightseers turned up their noses at the Clyde one day."

"Call this a river?" they said. "Why, it's a mere ditch in comparison with our Mississippi or St. Lawrence or Delaware."

"A week, mon," said a Scotch bystander, "you've got Providence to thank for your rivers, but we made this ourselves."

Death House of Her Own.
Mrs. Madeira Ferola, the first woman convicted of murder in the first degree in New York city since 1893, will have a whole house to herself when she goes up the river.

Warden Clancy is preparing the house across the street from the wall, the one occupied by Principal Keeper Connaughton before his death, two months ago. Three women keepers, formerly at Auburn prison, are expected to be on hand to look after Mrs. Ferola.

The prisoner killed a young man who had obtained a license to wed her and then backed out. She was convicted on evidence of her alleged accomplice and her ten-year-old daughter.

An American Abroad.

Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, daughter of the late John Boyle O'Reilly, the Boston poet and editor, is visiting in Ireland, and as the guest of the countess of Aberdeen was much entertained in Ireland. In London she was the guest at dinner of the lord mayor and other celebrities. Miss O'Reilly is studying sociological conditions in England and Ireland.

BY REPUBLICANS

men in the state dared to bring.

The speaker dwelt at length on the benefits of high tariff and protection to the industries of America and declared himself not only a deep student of but closely informed on child labor problem question. He said he was also interested in seeing that the eight hours of recreation granted to every man were safeguarded so that evil might be lessened. In closing the candidate termed Pennsylvania
the proudest and most impartial commonwealth in the federation of states and called on the voters to rally and in the next four years write another chapter in dignity, decency and progress.

Talks on Tariff.

William M. Brown, of New Castle candidate for congress from the 24th district gave a typical high tariff speech. He scored fusion declaring two parties opposed in principle could not possibly unite.

John R. K. Scott, candidate for congressman-at-large paid high tribute to Dr. Brumbaugh as a man of sterling honesty and high purpose.
He declared the only progressive party was the Republican party which he said had brought all prosperity to the nation.

The closing address of the evening was made by Mahlon M. Garland, candidate for congressman-at-large and a former mill man. Mr. Garland's remarks were addressed directly to the workers and were lightened by several humorous stories.

There was considerable enthusiasm
at various points in the addresses with the chief interest centered in Dr. Brumbaugh.

Overflow Meeting.

Crowds besieged the Grand theatre until every seat was taken early in the evening, and then hurriedly an overflow meeting in front of the Irondale hotel was arranged. William M. Brown and John R. K. Scott, of Philadelphia, candidates for congress were the chief speakers.

Dr. Brumbaugh and his party came to Donora from Pittsburgh early in the day. The school man candidate for governor was accompanied by Dr.
Houck, Mr. Garland, Mr. Scott, Senator Charles H. Kline, Louis J. Kolb of Philadelphia, a cousin of Dr. Brumbaugh, and Attorney A. T. Morgan of Pittsburgh.

School Men Meet Dr. Brumbaugh.

The entire Donora school board formed a reception committee to meet Dr. Brumbaugh on his arrival. The school directors are: Dr. J. Add Sprowls, C. W. Woodward, C. E. Morrison, John D. Foster, William Delaney, Benjamin Fielding and J. P.
Casiner. Among those who met Dr.
Brumbaugh were T. L. Pollock, superintendent of schools of Charleroi;
Supt. Edgar Reed of Donora, Supt.
L. R. Crumrine of Washington county and R. C. Dean, superintendent of schools of Monongahela.

After the Donora meeting Dr.
Brumbaugh left for Greensburg to take a train for Harrisburg, near where he will attend a fair today and speak. Other members of the party separated to some extent. The county candidates today came to Charleroi. In this party were included John W. Hallam, Dr. J. Add Sprowls, G. P. Baker, and Harry R.
Myers, various candidates.

COUNCIL WILL MEET ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Borough council will meet tomorrow night. This meeting was to have been held Tuesday night, but owing to the Republican rally at Donora was postponed.
